

Faculty Review of Open eTextbooks

The California Open Educational Resources Council has designed and implemented a faculty review process of the free and open etextbooks showcased within the California Open Online Library for Education (www.cool4ed.org). Faculty from the California Community Colleges, the California State University, and the University of California were invited to review the selected free and open etextbooks using a rubric. Faculty received a stipend for their efforts and funding was provided by the State of California, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Please provide comments on any aspect of the subject matter of this textbook:

- This book does not address the subject matter of MUS 110 - Music Fundamentals; it is focused solely on music history. Further, the book was published in 1891 and thus fails to reflect music composition or scholarship from the past 124 years. It is simply very much out of date and completely inappropriate for any modern course in Music Fundamentals.
- Music Fundamentals courses typically include workbooks and exercises for learning notation, pitch, rhythm, meter, etc. Strong books for this course would include interactive demonstrations with aural examples. This book does not address these important aspects at all.
